LOYOLA
UNIVERSITY
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Tragedy marked the beginning, tragedy and triumph marked the end of Cardinal Meyer's brief seven years in the Chicago Archdiocese. The disastrous fire at Our Lady of Angels called forth his sympathy and help to the bereaved. In the years that followed, his scholarship, vision, and leadership kept Chicago in the forefront of the social and liturgical renewals. Although a shy, reserved man, His Eminence was outspoken and forthright and impressed the Holy See. Important appointments and honors came to him rapidly. Prominent among these were memberships in the Pontifical Commission for Biblical Studies; the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, Seminaries, and Universities; the Pontifical Commission for the Revision of the Code of Canon Law; and the Sacred Congregation of the Holy Office.

During Vatican II, Cardinal Meyer "came of age" and was termed the "American Voice at the Vatican Council." His scholarship, wisdom, and leadership impressed the Council Fathers and the world in general.

In February, 1965, persistent pressure headaches necessitated the Cardinal's undergoing brain surgery for removal of what proved to be a malignant brain tumor. On April 9, 1965, death came to Chicago's Shepherd of Souls.—R.I.P.

Women of Loyola

Receiving line at the Anniversary Ball.

Fifty down and forever to go — Loyola's 4,000 coeds this year commemorated the day in 1915 when three women from the School of Sociology received their bachelor's degrees from the University. February 7 was chosen for special celebrations, which began with a Mass at Madonna Della Strada, included a brunch, speeches and a fashion show, and was culminated in the evening's formal ball. It's hard to imagine a Loyola without women, and just as hard for many of the coeds to imagine life without Loyola. Some of the school's most active student leaders and servants are female, not to mention 7,000 devoted members of the Alumnae Association. In every type of extracurricular activity, be it religious, athletic, musical, dramatic, honorary, co-curricular, or social in every branch of academic pursuit from the Stritch School of Medicine to the School of Business Administration, from entomology to English Literature; one finds the Loyola woman, striving to better herself and her environment.

Very Rev. James F. Maguire, S.J., assisted by Fathers Ralph Talkin, S. J. and Michael I. Gannon, S.J., receive gift offerings for Mass presented by Ellen Kane.

Ellen Kane, Connie Karas, Barbara Juskiewicz, Mary Cook, and Lari Didzerkis prepare for the gift procession at the Anniversary Mass.

A half-century of fashions was one of the highlights of the Coed Anniversary program. Here Marie Rose, Pat Chapmon, Sue Schager, Terri Loda, Carol Stitzer, Cynthia Lewis, and Jeonne Takitani present theirs.

SUMMER TOURS

San Cristobal, Indian trading in a color drenched market square, the mountains of Chiapas, strange students strolling across the sunny plaza, generous students at Dumbach or Xavier Grill forking out some change, sweat and grimy hands, the austere, raw wood frame, and suddenly a school in a small Indian village thirty miles from the town. This is Loyola's Mission to Mexico, conceived and directed by Fr. Charles Ronan, S.J. Eleven students of the University and six from Xavier in Cincinnati gave the summer of 1964 to the belief that all men of all nations are brothers in Christ.

One of the tedious, yet important, tasks of the third annual Alumni Day was the registration of new members.

Alumni Day

Alex Birren and his son, Robert P., representing the Silver Anniversary Class of '39, cut a piece of cake for the Very Rev. James F. Maguire, S.J., president.

Other persons participating in the Alumni Day were John Carmichael, sports editor, Chicago Daily News, Tom O'Hara, recipient of the Alumni Achievement Award, track coach Jerry Weiland, Father Maguire, S.J., and Joseph A. Cantafio, president of the Alumni Association.

Graduates from every school in the University and every class since 1909 gathered on June 13, for the Annual Alumni Day. Their reunion began with Mass at 9:15 celebrated by the Most Rev. R. P. Hillinger, D.D., who delivered a sermon on the "Importance of Alumni to a University." Breakfast followed immediately and then came a reception for faculty members. Lunch was served in the Xavier Grill with Pres.

Cantafio, D.D.S. acting as toastmaster. In the afternoon members of the press and L.U. professors delivered talks on everything from Greek Art to the Vatican Council II. A reception, dinner, and dancing at the lovely, north side Edgewater Beach Hotel brought a day of making new memories and summoning old ones to a fitting close.

Summer Curtain Guild

The Summer Curtain Guild is a notable exception to the inactivity of Loyola organizations during the long, lazy, vacation months. This year a new challenge was presented to the Guild in the form of an invitation to present a play before the National Catholic Theater Conference held in Detroit during the week of August 23-30. The play selected was Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream, one of the successes of the last school year. The cast, under the direction of Mr. William Morris, remained much the same. Because of the different facilities available in Detroit, however, the play was presented in a three-quarter arena style with the costuming and setting transformed from Elizabethan to Greek.

Father John McKenzie, S.J., receives the red carpet treatment on entering the Loyola Community Theatre.

JoEllen Tomsic and Robert Egan display emotional unrest in The Little Foxes.

A dinner party in the first act seems to suggest that all is going to be well, but the illusion is quickly destroyed in the subsequent happenings of the scene.

Eve Friend contemplates the suggestions made by Mory Pat Shelley and Roxanne Orloff in a scene from the Curtain Guild production of The Little Foxes.

A much enjoyed feature of the orientation week is the annual picnic, held again this year at Pottawatomie Park.

"Lake Shore Campus? Well, first you take the Michigan Ave. bus to . . ."

The Welcome Week dance in the Geargetown Room of Lewis Towers is the social climax of the entire week.

Upperclassmen at the picnic pitch in to serve lunch to more than twelve-hundred hungry freshmen.

Welcome Week

Thanks to the excellent work of Joe Walsh and the sophomore class officers, the class of 2,000 freshmen which began its "Welcome Week" on September 14, 1964, still numbered 2,000 on September 20. None were lost; nobody fell in the lake; no one was frightened away; and best of all, very few were bored stiff. The Class of '68 weren't tried and true Loyolans yet, but those six hectic days of registration, membership drives, book buying, picture taking; speech making, and party going had certainly initiated the metamorphosis. For many the annual freshman picnic, which was held at Pottawatomie Park, highlighted the week of orientation, while others will remember the Sunday Mass and Communion Breakfast which appropriately closed the week and began the year.

The activities of the week over, these Loyolans are headed toward four years of academic study.

The Chariot race is always one of the highlights of the Greek Week contests, and this year was no exception. The grass tapped field became a Grecian race track.

This year Greek Week began with a Mass at Madonna Della Strada on October 16. The rule was "ladies first" and the sororities participated in many events during the early part of the week. Friday afternoon the fraternities and sororities joined in an egg-throw and three legged pajama race, and that night the Panhellenic Association sponsored a mixer. Saturday marked the climax of activities for Greek Week with the Greek games during the day and the Interfraternity Council Dance in the evening. The Alpha Delt's again proved their prowess for the fifth year in a row by beating their nearest competitor by thirty-three points.

He's got the right idea; it's over the bar.

Founder's Day

The Founder's Day ceremonies marked the 94th anniversary of the founding of Loyola University, the oldest institution of higher learning in Chicago. The day's program included academic processions, awards to outstanding students, and special convocations for the community, students, and faculty. Mr. A. M. Sullivan, former editor of Dun's Review and Modern Industry, publications of Dun and Bradstreet, and the author of The Three Dimensional Man, was the speaker for the morning convocations. Nine outstanding students of the University received Students Gold Medallions. Civic leaders were honored "as dedicated citizens in the Chicago community and outstanding examples of responsible citizenship to present and future generations." Noted student leaders and organization officers attended the President's Ball, the final event of the day, which was in the Guild Hall of the Ambassador West.

Pow Wow

Somebody was thinking about this year's festivities when they named LU's annual fall frolic Pow-Wow Week. Wow was the only word for the Rambler's victory over Southwest Missouri and the six Miss Loyola candidates who were presented at the game and the mixer that followed. Wow applied to Thursday's bonfire, pep rally, cheer contest, and Hootenanny equally as well. But then Pow, just in time to cancel Friday's classes and the float parade, came the biggest blizzard in years. The Western Ontario team got through the storm, however, to be thoroughly defeated by a Rambler squad that no amount of snow could cool down. Fans skied over to Mundelein's auditorium to see the Rooftop Singers "Walk Right In" after the L.U. victory. By Saturday the planning committee had come up with a use for all that white stuff and many of the school's organizations were snow-sculpturing on the athletic field. The week ended with the Coronation Ball at the Sheraton-Chicago where Terrie Loda became Miss Loyola for 1965. WOW what a POW-WOW.

Panhellenic Reception

Rushees Jo Carol Blumenthal and Kathy Coniglio meet with the sisters of Koppo Beta Gammo.

Ginger Meares, president of Alpha Sigma Alpha, points out the sorority's scrapbook.

Kathy Smilec and Kathy Quinn, rushees, register for the Reception and rush tea.

Rush never ends at Loyola; it is a year-round event for all sorority women. But formal rush commences each semester with the Panhellenic Association Reception Tea. The purpose of the tea is to introduce rushees to sorority life in general and to demonstrate the Panhellenic spirit that "No one fraternity stands alone."

At the reception, girls are given an opportunity to hear the presidents of each sorority speak about the activities and achievements of her individual group and to see their separate displays of trophies, awards, scrapbooks, and jewelry. But the most important aspect of the tea is that the rushee has an opportunity to meet sorority women and decide for herself which rush parties she wishes to attend. The Panhellenic Reception begins an exciting and enjoyable two weeks of rushing events for the rushees — prospective sorority women.

Prospective pledges glance through Theta Phi Alpha's scrapbook.

Barb Dane, president of Alpha Tau Delta, explains to rushees about their professional nursing sorority.

Variety Show

"Student" was the key word in the fourteenth annual Variety Show, "Varieties '65." For the first time all technical work was handled by students. The Tau Delts handled all audio, lighting, and sound work adequately, if not professionally. They were awarded the first annual "Spirit Award," given the group which does the most to make the show a success.

Those who made a visit to Lane's auditorium while the show was playing were given a helping of "the spice of life". Varieties '65 took the viewer from New York to Hawaii, from London to a Mississippi riverboat, and from New Orleans home to Chi-town. Along the way audiences enjoyed the songs of a sparkling Irish soprano, a robust blond comedienne, two fine folk groups, and the Lodorians. They were guided from the "Once upon a time" of Snow White, through the days of Charlie Chaplin, to the contemporary theatre of the absurd. There was only one divergence from the rule of variety — almost all the tickets were sold.

Maria Ginex, Buddy Schwind, and Jeanne Olesky explore the chimney in Kappa Beta Gamma's "Mary Poppins."

Anne Kennedy, sophomore coed, entertained with "How Are Things In Glaccamarra?", "Zip-pety Do-Dah", "As Long As He Needs Me."

Key students in the show: John Serpe, Business Manager; Sue Sullivan, Treasurer; Bob Pirsein, Production Coordinator; Mary Bigangiari, Bob's assistant; Mike Garvey, Producer. Mr. Pirsein was one of the only two professionals hired.

Walt Disney was never like this! The UIL entertained with "Snow White and Six Dwarfs."

The "Two Plus Three" featured folksinging Loyalans. This group put the bounce in the show with their "That's What You Get For Loving Me," and other songs.

"The Uncalled Four," winners of one of the two second place awards on Friday night: Pat Foley, Steve Titro, and Joe Wilderson.

Delaware Hall demonstrates "Island Aloha" with three lead dancers.

Ginny Stockman, solo dancer in both the opening and the finale, closes the show with the back curtain up behind her and the stage lights being cut.

The show's finale featured calypso dancers, flappers, and jazz dancers.

Sigma Delta Phi's Don Dinelli sees his magic trick exposed in an award-winning act.

The Keystone Kops to the rescue as Chamberlain's Charlie Chaplin rescues the fair maiden.

Jack McCarthy (that beautiful dear) waves "Hello!" to Bob Schmitt and his A K Psi "Purity Patrol."

"The Noose," sponsored by a group of Lake Shore students, contrasted the intellectuals with the run-of-the-mill students.

Nan Johnson sings a solo as the girls of Stebler Hall look on.

Sword of Loyola

"Courage, Dedication, and Service" — three qualities which enabled Inigo of Loyola, the reckless enthusiast who went forth under the Viceroy of Navarre against the French in 1521, to become the general of the great Society of Jesus before his death in '56 — three qualities which his 36,000 followers strive to develop in their modern world — three qualities which are the criteria for the Sword of Loyola Award. On November 24, 1964, J. Edgar Hoover received the first Sword at the Annual Award Dinner of the Stritch School of Medicine. A distinguished selection jury headed by Supreme Court Associate Justice Arthur J. Goldberg evaluated the qualifications of many prominent national and inter-national figures. Hoover, who has achieved world renown during his forty years as head of the most effective crime-fighting agency in the history of law-enforcement, is also the author of two perceptive best sellers. As the largest Jesuit institution, Loyola University has assumed the responsibility of recognizing and encouraging those leaders of mankind who are the incarnation of Inigo's ideals by entrusting to them his sword.

Participants at the Annual Award Dinner included: John F. Sheehan, M.D., Vice-President of the Medical Center and Dean of the Stritch School of Medicine; Timothy J. Connelly, General Chairman; J. Edgar Hoover; the Very Rev. James F. Maguire, S.J., President; Francis J. Gerty, M.D.

Jeff Moss (Stan Zelesnik) introduces Ella Petersen (JoEllyn Tomsic) to Marty Weisenburger at a high society party in "Bells are Ringing."

Curtain Guild

Ella offers coffee to Inspector Barnes (Rich Buhl) and Francis (David Moran) in the sumptuous office of Susanwerphone in "Bells are Ringing."

Sir Lionel Brittlesby sings Ben Moderato's hit tune "Rozza Rozza Baby" honoring Maud and Delia Moss at the Ingenue Testimonial held annually at the Crying Gypsy Cafe.

Rehearsing for "The Little Foxes" are Mary Patrice Shelley, Eve Friend, Robert J. Egan, and Roxanne Orloff.

The Loyola University Curtain Guild is essentially a repertory group, and as such it attempts to provide its members and its audience with experience in many modes of theatre. During 1965 its productions ranged from Lillian Hellman's drama of southern life, "The Little Foxes", to Comden and Green's hit comedy, "The Bells Are Ringing". Two such divergent forms as the comedy of manners and the theatre of the absurd found expression in the Guild's presentation of Sheridan's "The School for Scandal" and "An Evening with Ionesco". From the invisibly efficient stage hand to the one-line walk-on to the lauded star, members will attest that "There's No Business Like Show Business". Their high enthusiasm, hard work, and varied offerings are quickly convincing their audience that they are right.

Faust Sapanara as Blake Barton, a pseudo Marlon Brando before Ella reforms him.

Sandar (David Perkavich), a cagey European can-artist, wins the heart of Sue (Susan Schager) to use her answering service as a front for a bookie operation as Gwynne (Nael Smoran) sighs.

Dan Connaughton goes high for the rebound while the rest of the team stands ready to assist him.

Although the Ramblers spent their year rebuilding the team, they still showed that they had potential by such successes as the Wichita victory.

Loyola's Track Team also had a very successful season. It placed second in the Illinois State meet. Also its mile relay team set a school record with 3:11.

Another great year was recorded by Loyola's Swim and Waterpolo teams. Waterpolo is the baby in the sports circle at Loyola, but this year nationally-rated Indiana University and Kentucky University both fell to the frogmen.

Les Taylor executes a perfect dive to contribute points to another victory for the swim team.

Mike Wallace takes the baton from Joe Cleory as the freshmen two mile relay team sets another record.

Loyola's Waterpolo team has had a great season and here are three of the reasons why.

Commencement

The new Doctor of Laws receives congratulations from Fr. Maguire.

Mr. Joseph Taylor helps wife Audrey don her cap after their mutual receipt of M.A.'s in math.

Fr. Maguire and honorary degree recipients: Archibald Cox, Alexander Enlenberg, Assoc. Prof. of Accounting at Loyola; Rev. Gordon E. Murphy, S.J., Jesuit Missionary from Patna, India; Balton Sullivan, Board Chairman of Skil Corp.; and John F. Smith, Jr., President of Inland Steel Co.

Miss Joan Steinbrecher shows her newly awarded degree to the Dean of Women, Miss Mariette LeBlanc.

Flowing black gowns, a sea of tilting mortarboards, the somber brilliance of academic hoods, 543 mid-year graduates march toward a diploma and away from Loyola, but they linger long enough to hear Dr. Robert McAfee Brown, noted author and professor at Stanford University, tell them of the "Catholic Layman in Tomorrow's World." 309 leave the Arie Crown Theatre of McCormick Place with degrees from the University's undergraduate schools, while over two hundred receive masters or doctorates from the graduate and professional divisions. So the mid-year class of 1965 goes from the campus community to the community of concrete, and commerce and Congress, renewing the stream by which Loyola and institutions like Loyola hope to serve, to salvage, and to ennoble our society.

Fr. Maguire congratulates four of Loyola's distinguished honorary alumni.

ADMINISTRATION

VERY REVEREND
JAMES F. MAGUIRE, S.J.

President of the University

Through the efforts of the Very Reverend James F. Maguire, S.J., Loyola has become one of the finest Catholic universities in the nation. Previous to his arrival at Loyola, he was President of Xavier University in Cincinnati and rector of West Baden College. Appointed as President in 1955, he has broadened the education given at Loyola, especially by establishing the annual international summer trips to various foreign countries and the program of studies in Rome. Among his other innovations to Loyola have been the establishment of the Woman's Board, the Citizens' Board, the Alumni Advisory Council, the Board of Lay Trustees, the Businessman for Loyola, and the University Center at Lewis Towers.

Vice-Presidents

REV. ROBERT MULLIGAN, S.J.

W. DANIEL CONROYD

THOMAS F. HAWKINS

A graduate of Loyola, Robert W. Mulligan, S.J. is Vice-President and Dean of Faculties. Before assuming his duties as Vice-President, he served as Chairman of the Philosophy department. Involved in many activities, he is primarily concerned with the improvement of faculty and administration relations and of the extensive seminar programs conducted at Loyola. At present, he is the editor of the Dialogue and President of Phi Sigma Tau, the national philosophy honor society.

Since arriving at Loyola in 1945, W. Daniel Conroyd has shown great ability in administrative positions, especially in the field of public relations. He is presently Vice-President and Director of Public Relations, and formerly served as Assistant to the President. His many functions vary from organizing fundraising programs to handling public relations for Loyola and establishing alumni groups.

The finances of Loyola are under special care of the guiding hands of Thomas F. Hawkins, Vice-President and Business Manager. Before arriving at Loyola thirteen years ago, he served as treasurer and comptroller for the Nachman Corporation. At present, he holds the position of treasurer, which he has occupied since 1956, and is in charge of all the financial areas of the University, including long-range plans, construction, and maintenance.

Standing: Rev. Franklin C. Fischer, S.J., Rev. Walter Krolkowski, S.J., Rev. Felix P. Biestek, S.J., Rev. Laurence Henderson, S.J. Seated: Rev. Stewart E. Dallard, S.J., Rev. Robert W. Mulligan, S.J., Very Rev. James F. Maguire, S.J., Rev. John W. Bieri, S.J., Rev. John Mentag, S.J.

Board of Trustees

Entrusted with the general welfare of the University, the Board of Jesuit Trustees must have a wide scope: long range planning and policy formation are its main concerns. The Board, under the chairmanship of the Very Rev. James F. Maguire, S.J., is thus the seat of administrative authority — the most important agency of the University.

Standing: Harry L. McCloskey, W. Daniel Canroyd, Rev. Hugh B. Radman, S.J., Richard A. Matre, Matthew H. Scheonbaum, James C. Cox, Rev. Joseph S. Pendergast, S.J., J. Raymond Sheriff, John C. Hayes, Dr. William Schoen. Seated: Elizabeth A. McCann, Gladys Kiniery, Rev. Robert W. Mulligan, S.J., Very Rev. James M. Maguire, S.J., Rev. Stewart E. Dollard, S.J. Not present: Rev. Raymond C. Baumhart, S.J., Miss Mariette LeBlanc, Rev. Walter P. Krolkowski, S.J., Rev. John C. Malloy, S.J.

Administrative Council

The Administrative Council, composed of the Vice-Presidents, the Deans of all Colleges, the Dean of Students, the Registrar, the Dean of Admissions, and the Dean of Women, is an invaluable source of information for the University President. Such matters as accreditation and admission procedures are all under its competent authority.

Board of Lay Trustees

Organized to advise the Very Rev. James F. Maguire on the countless financial and legal matters concerning the University, the Board of Lay Trustees is a recognized authority in all areas of public relations, finance, education, and campus planning. In serving the general welfare of Loyola it could be considered a worthy counterpart to the Board of Jesuit Trustees.

Women's Board

The Women's Board of Loyola University is a vital organ of communication between the campus and the community. At its quarterly luncheons, the Board learns of the many educational opportunities within the University and of Loyola's contributions to the city and the nation. The school is indeed fortunate to have such a group of civic, cultural, and social leaders represented in its Women's Board.

Citizens Board

To be better able to acquaint Chicago with the achievements of the University, the Citizens' Board — its members all prominent Chicagoans — meets four times a year to gain the knowledge of Loyola which is a means to that end. Both Loyola and Chicago benefit from its worthwhile efforts.

University

Since its beginning in 1955, Businessmen for Loyola University has brought more than $3,000,000 to the university's Great Teaching Program, an annual fund appeal to Loyola alumni, business and industrial executives, parents of Loyola students, and foundations. The goal of the 10th MLU program is $460,000 or 92 teaching units, each unit being a portion of the funds used to augment the income of a Loyola faculty member. Chicago area business and civic leaders thus recognize that Loyola's growth is a contribution to the growth of both city and nation.

Parents Association of Loyola

Personal contact is the keynote of all activities sponsored by the Parent Associates of Loyola: the admissions program designed to interest high school seniors in Loyola, the fund-raising drive to increase faculty salaries, and last, but not least, the social program highlighted by a reception for freshmen parents, a Christmas party, and a dinner party in April. Since its founding in 1957, it has helped to maintain the University's high level of education.

Students Association of Loyola

With representatives from fraternities, sororities, independent and academic societies, as well as residents of both men's and women's dormitories, the Student Associates of Loyola has become one of our most comprehensive organizations. Closely connected with the Parent Associates of Loyola, SAL uses personal contact as the basis of its activities — thus following in the worthy footsteps of its "parent" organization.

Estate Planning Commission

"Your Influence on tomorrow" sums up the aim of the Estate Planning Committee, an association of outstanding attorneys, trust officers and accountants under the direction of Mr. Eugene R. Zacher, Director of Estate Planning.

The Committee offers a variety of plans designed to benefit the University including gifts, trusts, scholarships, buildings, professorships, research projects, and cultural activities, all aimed at the goal of increasing the quality of education at Loyola.

Medical Center Council

With the increasing number of applicants to the Stritch School of Medicine, plans were made last year to move to the new facilities being built in Maywood. Financing the new center by raising funds is the task which the businessmen forming the Medical Center Council have undertaken. With the completion of the final facilities, the Medical School will be able to accomodate more students and expand its operational services.

The College of Arts and Sciences

The College of Arts and Sciences must be seen as the heart of any University, pumping its students to the various graduate and professional schools, empowering them first with the broad knowledge that they need to be good men, and then with the force that will speed them into one small capillary of learning. The muscles of this organ at Loyola are the Jesuits and laymen who staff and administer the 18 departments of the College. It is the oldest division of the University, and generally the largest. Through it pass the most students and from it must pass the most fully developed men.

Honors Program

The Loyola University Honor's Program was first announced on July 9, 1936, and has since continued in an effort to fully cultivate intellectually gifted Loyolans. Presently, the program is under the direction of Rev. C. J. Burlage, S.J. who describes it as a means to fulfill "the special needs of the talented student so that he could properly achieve the aims of personal development and preparation, in terms of information and skills for accepting and properly discharging his responsibility in American society." The special Honors sections in English, history, logic, metaphysics, and speech bring gifted students into close contact with each other and with the teacher. During the Senior year an Honor student experiences intensive independent inquiry as he works on the Honors thesis in his major or prepares for his public examination. All Honors Students have a 3.3 average or better, but more important than this arbitrary figure to the individual within the program and to the entire University is the attempt at education in depth which Loyola is making.

Pre-Seminary Latin Program

"Hawaii", "California", "Florida", read the tags on the baggage arriving at Loyola Hall last February — as well as "New York", "Pennsylvania", "Virginia", "Ohio", "North Dakota", "Wisconsin", and "Illinois".

What brought people to iced-in Chicago from the winter vacation paradises of the world, and from the major metropolises of the States? The will to qualify as AN ANGEL after just four months.

"An Angel! What do you mean!"

Oh, by now, any resident in Loyola Hall will tell you. That's the name humorously applied to themselves by the men in Father Henderson's Pre-Seminary Latin Program. The name began in 1955; the Program, in 1948.

And the way those fellows have to work, and have worked, consistently, each yearly group of them, since 1948, would almost make you think they possess angelic powers of endurance.

Equipped by June with sufficient Latin knowledge for acceptance into major seminaries, they leave Loyola with love for Fr. Henderson in their hearts and write back to him year after year, literally around the world: 53 dioceses, 22 Orders, dozens of countries from Peru to Taiwan.

1914 marked the establishment of the University College, a college of the University which draws from both Arts and Sciences and Business Administration, but at the same time exists as a separate entity comprising miniature Loyola.

Established to enable students to complete their education, though unable to attend classes during the day, the University College carries all courses given during the day. Late afternoons, evenings, and Saturdays find the UC students working for A.B.'s and B.S.'s in Liberal Arts, Education, and Business.

Graduate School

Research and scholarship keynote the aims and ideals of students in the Graduate School. Since 1926 Loyola has enrolled top students in its graduate programs, the best receiving assistantships and fellowships with the common aim of all being the advanced degree. Masters degrees in arts and science followed by doctoral degrees in a wide range of fields give the Graduate School great flexibility.

Study in the major field is the main goal following an intensive program. The practical experience is not lacking with teaching comprising an integral part of most graduate programs.

Bellarmino Aurora

June 1964 saw the end of the West Baden era of the Chicago Province of the Society of Jesus. For 30 years, the West Baden Springs Hotel, once a world famous spa and a gift of the late Charles E. Ballard, had served as a scholasticate for the young Jesuits. Over that period 549 men had made their philosophical and theological studies and been ordained to the priesthood at "Baden".

Early in 1964 the Jesuits purchased the Hilton Inn at North Aurora and in June the community and 28 semi-trailerloads of books and furniture moved thereto. Now known as Bellarmine School of Theology of Loyola University, the new seminary consists of a group of eight well-constructed buildings located on a 12 acre site at the northwest corner of the junction of the East-West Tollway and Highway 31. Bellarmine now serves as a major seminary for the Jesuits of the Chicago and Detroit Provinces.

The new location provides modern housing accommodations, decreased maintenance, and proximity to the academic and cultural opportunities of Chicago. A familiar sight on the East-West Tollway is the blue Bellarmine bus speeding the Jesuits to and from Chicago.

School of Dentistry

The aim of the dental curriculum is to prepare students to be competent professionals. Allied with this, however, is the desire to impart to the future dentists a sound appreciation of the intellectual, social, and spiritual values of life. The fact that Loyola has trained dentists whose competence is nationally recognized is a good indication that the school does achieve its aim.

Housed in a five-story building situated in the West Side Medical Center, the school has all the facilities needed in the four year program for a Doctor of Dental Surgery degree, including a large reference library, containing texts, reference volumes, and current medical and dental journals. The building also features a clinic which serves as a teaching laboratory, giving the students opportunities to work with many varieties of cases.

The Stritch School

In recent years fortune has smiled on the Stritch Medical School. In 1961, 61.7 acres of government surplus property at the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital were given to LU for construction of a new medical center. Loyola's House of Medicine in Mid-America advanced another giant step towards its goal when it received in the summer of 1964 a federal grant matching of $1,970,000 to assist in construction of research facilities in the planned new Medical Center. Later a grant of $7,964,000 was awarded for teaching facilities, including the hospital. Funds for the Center have been received from many private foundations and industries and drives conducted by a Building Fund Committee. From all sources a total of $19 million has been collected.

Highlighting this year's events were the annual Stritch Medical Dinner, which was more successful than ever, and a Medicine Jubilee Ball in May commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Medical School and the projected groundbreaking for the $26 million Loyola Medical Center.

Special features of the Center will include: an Institute of Mind, Drugs, and Behavior; an Institute of Medicine and Morals; an Out-patient clinic staffed by Loyola trained personnel; and a Physical Rehabilitation Center.

School of Nursing

A strong academic program is only one half of the School of Nursing program. Such diverse studies as biology, literature, psychology, and philosophy are integrated with diverse hospital and public health training which rounds the curriculum and culminates in a B.S.N. degree at the end of the four year program. Registered nurses may receive the same degree by following an academic program designed to supplement their previous training.

The aim of the two degree programs is to produce highly competent nurses, to instill in them the fundamentals of Catholic nursing, thus producing a well-rounded woman capable of meeting the many challenges of the Nursing profession.

Institute of Social and Industrial Relations

The late Rev. Ralph A. Gallagher, S.J., was one of the first in this country to recognize the need for trained men in the complexities of Industrial Relations, Personnel Management, and Public Administration. In 1941 he founded what is now the largest graduate school of its kind: The Institute of Social and Industrial Relations.

The Institute is a professional division of Loyola's Graduate School offering a Master of Social and Industrial Relations. There are currently over 200 students enrolled in the three majors of this degree program. For those business men who are not seeking a degree, but want knowledge in a special facet of Industrial Relations, Personnel Management, or Public Administration, the Institute offers several short seminars each year and features some of the country's most outstanding businessmen as speakers.

I.S.I.R., the University, and the entire community were saddened when on March 10 Father Gallagher died of a sudden heart attack. "During his 30 years at Loyola, Fr. Gallagher's service to the University, to Chicago, and the nation earned him a reputation as one of the country's most prominent criminologists and socialologists." Newspaper editorials and expressions of condolence and praise poured in from civic and religious leaders for one whose name perhaps most stood for "Loyola". R.I.P.

School of Social Work

The School of Social Work has instilled in its graduates a blend of behavioral understanding, appreciation of social problems, and Christian principals. Under the direction of Dr. Matthew Schoenbaum, Dean, the twenty-one professor faculty prods the students "to further dynamic development of social work."

Social work is recognized as a profession which has become a necessary part of our society. Over four thousand social workers from the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, the Philippines, and the Orient have received professional training at Loyola.

Home Study Division

Canada, Europe, Africa and all fifty States can count Loyola Students among their populace; not as residents on Loyola's campus, but correspondents obtaining part of their education through the University's Home Study Division.

Established in 1921, Loyola's Home Study program is one of only two established at Catholic Universities. Countless thousands have used their homes as classrooms, completing their education through the mail and taking basically the same courses as those offered at the University.

Loyola's Home Study Division is under contract with the United States Armed Forces Institute and enrolls yearly over 500 men and women in active military service.

Department of Urban Studies

The Department of Urban Studies was founded in the Fall of 1963 to explore Urban economics, urban political science, and urban sociology. As a large city progresses, the problems of urban renewal, politics, and finance present new challenges to the community-at-large and its administrators. The Department of Urban Studies gives the student, future administrators, and future citizens a modern, comprehensive view of the city and its needs.

Situated on the Lewis Towers campus, the Department awards a Master of Arts degree in Sociology: a modern program for modern problems.

Institute of Jesuit History

The Institute of Jesuit History is integrated academically with the Graduate School and is open to both Jesuits and non-Jesuits holding a Ph.D. in history who are qualified for research in the formation, development, and influence of American Jesuit history.

The Institute publishes monographs and texts on Jesuit history and a quarterly research publication — Mid-America.

Some of the areas researched by the Institute in the past have been features of exploration by famous Jesuits such as Fathers Marquette, Kino, and Cataldo. The Institute's academic influence is evidenced by the mural-map of Jesuit exploration in the New World which hangs over the library counter of the Elizabeth Cudahy Memorial Library.

Loyola Guidance Center

Dealing with behavioral problems of both children and adults is the prime function of The Loyola Guidance Center, under the direction of Dr. Thomas M. Kennedy of Loyola's Psychology department.

Staffed by full time clinical psychologists, with the assistance of well-trained students, the Center strives to redirect the child to a normal outlook and to help his parents understand the role they play in this process.

The Center also conducts tests to measure aptitudes, ambitions, and job suitability for Loyolans.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Union Board

While a heated controversy on its purpose and composition raged in and out of the campus paper, the Loyola University Union Board kept right on functioning during 1965. It won the gratitude of thousands of frightened freshmen for the Welcome Week which it sponsored. Pow Wow and University Weekends proved that UAB gives the best parties at Loyola, and entertains with the prettiest hostess, Miss Loyola, who was selected in a Union sponsored election. The Board also is responsible for the Leadership Workshop, the Student Opinion Commission, the Student Rights Charter, and the Student Athletic Coordinator. There may always be a question of theoretic purpose, but the record shows that the Union Board has a concrete dedication to its practical end — service to the student body.

Arts Council

Self-study, reporting on Union conditions, sponsoring an academic information service, working with Fr. Krolikowski initiating a Freshman dance rather than party, working on the tri-council. The Arts Councils' status has risen like a geyser this year under the continued prod of Marty Lane and the special efforts of the class officers. Plans are being made to reform the Council into a strongly representative group who will review organizing clubs before their final acceptance. Three of the classes have their own newspaper to keep the students abreast of latest happenings on anything from the Variety Show to the Placement Bureau.

Candidates for class officers have been more numerous this year, due to the new role which the Council has taken on. The Council has given its support to such projects as Mission to Mexico and Loyola Men which makes obvious its concern for organizations which come under its realm.

Business Council

"Communicare" is indeed an appropriate motto for the Business Administration Council, which is dedicated to the free exchange of ideas between and among the students and faculty of the School of Business Administration. Each class seats its three officers on the board, and thus has equal opportunity to determine and to learn of the Council's activities. The News Letter has proven itself an invaluable tool building school unity and spirit, and a practical means of realizing the Council's motto.

Nursing Council

In 1951 the Association of the Basic Students of the School of Nursing was organized, with the Nursing Council as its governing body. All the students currently registered in the four-year basic program of the School of Nursing are members of the Association.

The purposes of the Association and the Nursing Council are: 1) to encourage unity and cooperation among the members of the Association; 2) to help the members of the Association to develop the mental, spiritual, and professional qualities necessary for the practice of nursing in today's society; 3) to promote participation in the student activities of the University, and the local, state and national Student Nurses' Association, and the Catholic Student Nurses' Council, and; 4) to aid members of the Association in the formation and development of skills in student government and management of student affairs.

The Student Council of the Loyola School of Dentistry, Chicago College of Dental Surgery, was created by the student body with the aid and cooperation of the faculty and with the approval of the President and Board of Trustees of the university. Its purpose is the development of a broader social, moral and cultural atmosphere and close unity among the members and organizations of the school. It annually sponsors the Winter formal dance, Christmas show, the Dental School News and the Dental School Choir...

Student Bar Association

The main purpose of the Student Bar Association is to promote and supervise student affairs and extra-curricular activity in the School of Law. Modeled after the American Bar Association, it furnishes to the future lawyer professional activities which aid in the development of attorneys well qualified to maintain the dignity of the legal profession.

The Student Bar Association is affiliated with the American Law Student Association and participates in its nationwide programs.

Every student in the Law School is a member and each class has two representatives on the board of governors. At the end of each school year election of officers takes place and at that time members of the Association are appointed by the incoming officers to replace the outgoing heads of each committee.

Standing: James Heath, Freshman Class Representative, Michael Strening, Third Year Representative. Seated: Leon Conlon, Secretary, Frank Neidhart, Second Year Representative, Michael Connelly, Treasurer. At Podium: John Kneafsey, President.

Standing: Rosemary Fisher, Ron Eckerle, Joe Zummo, Hugh Mortinelli, Paul Stewart. Seated: Lee Weiner, Jockie Down, Secretary; Miss Dwyer, Advisor; Poul Lucero, President; Phyllis Antonelli, Treasurer.

The Student Council of Loyola's School of Social Work is composed of four members elected from each class. It aims to stimulate student participation in academic, professional, and social activities. Hence, the council sponsors a Lecture Services, an Annual Christmas Party, a Graduation Reception, and an orientation program for incoming first-year students. In addition, council members contribute to The Face Sheet, the School's student publication, and aid in conducting an annual Day of Recollection. This year's council has been actively involved in the ceremonies commemorating the 50th Anniversary of Loyola's School of Social Work and its contribution to the Chicago community.

Social Work Council

The Student Council of University College, composed of ten elected representatives of the school's 2800 students, activates the UC extra-curricular life. In this way the Council brings the benefits of self-government to the UC student body.

Aware that the atmosphere of University College differs significantly from every other campus of Loyola, the Council initiates policies and activities that reflect this difference. The Council serves as a liaison group for the various UC organizations.

The Council assists Dean Richard A. Matre at time of registration. It sponsors the Dean's Coffee Hour at the start of the Fall Semester to acquaint the students with the various organizations of University College. It holds an Honors Banquet each Spring to award the outstanding graduating seniors.

Operating under a new constitution this past year, the Loyola Hall Dorm Council furnished the residents opportunities for self-development. This was effected by its component groups: the Executive Board, the Dorm Senate, the Judicial Board, and the six wing councils.

The Council is the energizing force in Loyola Hall's participation in intramural athletics, dances and mixers, Pow Wow, the Miss Loyola contest, campus politics, and religious activities. Finally, the Council's influence is felt in academic and administrative areas of the University.

Women's Dormitory Councils

The Women's Interhall Council, which was instituted in October of 1962, consists of the five executive council members from each of Loyola's Women's Residence Halls. This year the delegates from Delaware Hall, Stebler Hall, and Chamberlain invited St. Joseph's Manor to participate as non-voting members. IHC serves as a link between the University and the dorms and as a regulatory body. It attempts to unite the resident women as a more effective force for progress within the school.

Interfraternity Council

The Inter-Fraternity Council is the chief coordinator and regulator of Loyola's undergraduate fraternities. Since its emancipation from the Union Board in 1958, the Council has become a major organization of the University. It serves the member clubs by issuing an informative rush booklet to all men entering L. U. and sponsoring a general rush smoker during Welcome Week. IFC sets the standards for all frat rushing, pledging, membership, and activities. Through it the Greeks can share in various community projects and benefit from an ever-widening program of intra-mural sports. IFC serves most, however, by providing an open and democratic forum for the discussion of fraternity problems.

Panhellenic Association

Standing: Toni Sabota, Union Board Rep.; Judy Peterson, Treasurer; Raenita Lushek, Secretary. Seated: Mary Carr, Parliamentarian; Miss Joan Steinbrecher, Moderator; Loretta Didzerkis, President.

Unity is established among the sororities on campus through the efforts of the Panhellenic Association, which was known as the Inter-Sorority Council until this year. Panhellenic governs Rush and Pledge rules and acts as a board for discussing problems and topics of interest to all sorority women on campus. This year it sponsored a mixer and raffle to raise money for the envisioned Panhellenic house and also held its first Panhellenic Rush Workshop.

HONORARIES

Beta Alpha Psi

Beta Alpha Psi, the national honorary accounting fraternity, was founded in 1919 at the University of Illinois. Expansion over the years has resulted in a present total of sixty-six chapters in various colleges and universities across the country. Beta Iota, the Loyola chapter, was chartered in 1960 and has a present membership of nine active members student as well as several honorary and faculty members.

Membership is by invitation of the active members. The basic criterion for eligibility set by the national fraternity is high scholastic achievement both in accounting subjects and in all studies cumulatively.

Despite its essential character as an honorary association, Beta Alpha Psi is more vitally active than one would expect in an organization of its type. Activities range from chapter meetings to national conventions, with lecture meetings in the individual chapters, joint meeting of numerous chapters, and field trips adding to the interest and benefits of membership in an association of such stature.

Beta Gamma Sigma

Beta Gamma Sigma is the honor fraternity for students in the School of Business Administration. On April 21, 1962, Dr. Raymond Mayer, Chairman of the Management Department, established Loyola's Epsilon chapter of this National Organization. To be eligible for membership in Beta Gamma Sigma, students must be in attendance at Loyola for three years, and they must either be in the upper ten per cent of their senior class, or the upper five per cent of their junior class. Because of these stringent requirements, admission to BGS is universally recognized as a singular distinction.

Delta Sigma Rho

Delta Sigma Rho — Tau Kappa Alpha is the imposing title of a band of Loyola's most imposing and eloquent speakers. It is LU's chapter of the national forensic fraternity whose members have all distinguished themselves in intercollegiate oration or debate. The organization provides a meeting ground for students with similar interests and capabilities, and works with the Debate Society to see that Loyola is well represented at forensic competitions. Membership in the group is, in itself, an honor which spurs the member to do better as well as the aspiring orator. Each Spring the fraternity holds a debate contest for Chicagoland high schools; thus, it hopes to encourage and recognize the young student speaker.

Pi Delta Epsilon

Those who have completed at least one full year of journalistic effort — on the Loyolan, Loyola News or Cadence — are eligible for membership in Pi Delta Epsilon. The Loyola Chapter of this national organization was established in 1958 to give recognition to those who give their time and effort to student publications.

A delegation of five members of the Embassy, as well as the Deans, Chairman of Departments and faculty were among the guests.

Membership in Pi Delta Phi, the National French Honor Society is open to those students who maintain a B average in French studies for five semesters, and an over-all B average in general scholarship.

Sigma Theta Tau

The prettiest fraternity at L.U. is the Alpha Beta Chapter of Sigma Theta Tau, the national honorary for nurses. Since March of 1963, it has worked to foster higher standards of practice and preparation within the profession, to foster fellowship among the members, and to unify students and alumni. This year the frat has had several guest speakers on subjects ranging from modern art to anthropology.

Seated: Colette Stack, Recording Secretary; Gayle Aubry, Corresponding Secretary. Standing: Diane Peiniger, President; Margaret McDonald, Treasurer.

This year a scholarship for upperclassmen was established with Blue Key funds and Father Roland DeVaux, the eminent archaeologist and biblical scholar, was invited to deliver an open lecture. The Fraternity once again brought the ideal of true intellectual vigor closer to realization.

An independent Awards Committee selects the final recipients, and the awards are presented at the annual Blue Key Dance in May.

Alpha Chapter of Alpha Delta Gamma, a national Catholic college fraternity, was founded at the Lake Shore Campus of Loyola in 1924, and has an active membership of sixty-four brothers. Life within the fraternity prepares the members for community living, affords personal experience in the give-and-take of brotherly group association, stimulates extra-curricular student activities, and provides national contacts and horizons of interest as national office of the fraternity. Furthermore, those within the fraternity learn to respect what is unique in each individual member of the group. The fraternity is a human institution with human imperfections, yet with the capacity to confer on its members benefits and values that last through the years.

The Alpha Omega Chapter seeks to unite students of Dentistry and to inspire them to the highest professional standards. Founded in 1908 at the Pennsylvania College of Dental Surgery, it became the first national Jewish fraternity.

The common band of this organization is based on three cardinal principles: Fraternalism, Judaism, and Professionalism. Fraternalism — the friendship which binds Alpha Omegans in benevolence and understanding. Judaism — the brothers have always sought to preserve their heritage. Professionalism — the members believe in the importance of the healing art and its close ties with the community.

Alpha Omega fills its calendar with smokers, a Halloween Dance, a January Dinner Dance, and sponsors discussion with the faculty and guest lecturers.

Alpha Tau Delta claims the honor of being the only national professional fraternity on Lake Shore Campus. Founded in 1957, a fraternity for women in Nursing, the XI chapter demands recognition for its many and varied activities on the campus — it is always represented in such University undertakings as Welcome week, Pow Wow, IFC, and Greek week. This year's variety show included Alpha Tau Delta's act "Alone with My Shadow" and this year's mixer proved most successful.

Although fraternalism is dubbed most important by members of Alpha Tau Delta, excellence in individual endeavors is also stressed — which accounts for the fact that the sisters can be found participating in numerous "non-fraternal" activities around the campus.

Members were thrilled this year with the election of their own Terrie Loda as Miss Loyola.

The sorority's own social calendar includes a Mother-Daughter Communion Breakfast, a raffle and a mixer (at which the Athlete of the Year is named), and an annual charity day. Then there are parties, bicycle rides, and sleigh-rides. The year is climaxed by Delta Zeta Chi's formal dinner-dance, the Candlelight Cotillion. Our motto: Dignity, Zeal, and Character.

Sigma Delta Phi is an undergraduate social fraternity established at Loyola in 1958. This organization provides an opportunity for its members to better themselves physically, socially, morally, and academically.

The Sigma Delts are the only local fraternity on campus to have a fraternity house. Serving as a center of their social activities, it provides the brothers with a place for relaxation as well as study.

With a membership of over 50, the fraternity displays its unity in the fact that it has placed either first, second, or third in every interfraternity activity this year. Also, the Sigma Delts are often called upon to assist at university and community functions, thus stressing even more their aim — "To unite a body of men into a living creed."

Prior to incorporation into their large national, the brothers of Sigma Pi (Beta Chi Chapter) were a local pre-medical fraternity named Phi Mu Chi founded in 1922 — Loyola's oldest fraternity.

Athletically, Sigma Pi makes a strong bid for victory in intramurals . . . a respected opponent on the field or court. A long tradition of service to Loyola has marked the activities of the members of Sigma Pi Alpha. Since its founding in 1933 this local fraternity has been dedicated to developing its members intellectually and socially, physically and spiritually, in friendship and cooperation. Though one of Loyola's smaller fraternities, Sigma Pi Alpha has made significant contributions to campus activities and projects in many areas. In the recent past the fraternity has consistently maintained one of the highest academic averages of all Loyola organizations. Sigma Pi Alpha maintains its stress upon the spiritual, academic and social aspects of collegiate life. Its many loyal alumni work closely with the undergraduate members in giving advice and counsel, and in encouraging them in all their activities to live up to the ideas of Loyola.

Completed in 1955 and housing 360 students, Loyola Hall is located on the beautiful Lake Shore Campus. The only men's residence for the entire university, Loyola Hall furnishes many things for its hardworking residents — such as good, homecooked meals. It serves as a home away from home while providing the student with social, recreational, educational, and useful facilities — even washing machines and dryers. Dances, movies, guest lectures, and athletic contests are a regular fare to occupy the student's leisure time. Much more important than the above functions is the role of providing a school and a dorm spirit which can only be provided by a residence hall. Loyola Hall fulfills this special function to the benefit of the individual student and the university.

Executive board members Frank Benak, Hugh Carr, Gordy Dammann, and Bab Schwaner discuss coming dorm events.

Delaware Hall

The only Lewis Towers campus residence, Delaware Hall houses seventy coeds in the Arts program. Located in the heart of the Gold Coast area of Chicago, the coeds are fortunate to live close to the excitement and magnificent splendor of Michigan Avenue, the Art Institute, the Chicago Stock Exchange, the Schubert Theatre, the Metropolitan Opera, and the Lewis Towers campus. These areas are only minutes away, offering unique opportunities for academic, cultural, and social activities. In addition to their studying, the girls sponsor parties, dances, and participate in the various university functions.

Chamberlain Hall

The open house was open only one way for George Crosby, as he finds himself forcibly detained by his Chamberlain "friends."

Boasting the largest number of resident women, Chamberlain Hall is located on Loyola's Lake Shore Campus. The girls pride themselves on an "All for one and one for all" spirit that has helped them to success in all the University activities they enter. This year the hall was well represented during Pow Wow week, in the Miss Loyola competition, in the Ugly Man contest, at the Variety Show, and on University Weekend. An annual climax to dorm projects is the luau held at the beach during May. Chamberlain has done much to advance and guide its residents in their religious, social, and academic lives, and to increase their enjoyment of Loyola University.

Stebler Hall

On the S.W. corner of Loyola and Winthrop rises an imposing structure, home of 77 sharp coeds, and known as Stebler Hall. These hard-working, fun-loving girls have as their standard-excellence. Witness their Varieties '65 act "Frankie and Johnny", which walked away with two awards—the Alumni "Iggy" and the Audience Popularity Trophy. Three weeks later saw the girls construct an outstanding booth for University Weekend based on the Queen of Hearts. Their talents even extended to the culinary skills — which were evident in their barbecue in May.

What is behind this drive and zeal? Perhaps, it is the T.O.T.S.N.S. that make their debut each Spring at the annual T.O.T.S.N. Party. With Stebler T.O.T.S.N.S. on the loose, Loyola Campus best beware!

Gonzaga Hall

A converted apartment building on Kenmore Avenue is the five-day-a-week residence hall for 38 students from the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business Administration, the Law School and University College. On the weekends, Gonzaga Hall serves as a retreat hall for students, professional groups and others interested in making a closed retreat in the city.

A unique feature of Gonzaga Hall is that it is managed entirely by the student residents. The payment of the bills, the maintenance requirements and other matters concerning the administration of the house are handled by a House Council moderated by Rev. J. Donald Hayes, S.J. Gonzaga Hall's plans for the near future include the acquisition of a neighboring apartment building and the expansion of dormitory facilities for more students.

Rev. J. Donald Hayes, S.J. offers spiritual counseling to the residents.

Residents chant "Emmanuel" hymn in Advent ceremony.

The Conrad Hilton of Loyola dorms — St. Joseph's Manor — is, in many ways, the envy of the other women's halls. Its yard stretches from the winding lanes of Lincoln Park along the Outer Drive to Chicago's fabulous Gold Coast. Its residents share the newest and largest accommodations that the University offers to Women. They enjoy the luxury of two elevators, several private parlors, and air-conditioned rooms. These are the extremely favorable aspects of Manor dwelling, but truthful Josephites admit that there are a few points against their home. They never quite know whether to check "commuter" or "resident" on registration forms, as they recall their daily bus rides to either campus. The food situation is also rather confusing. The girls spent the first semester learning to cook something they could eat, but in the second term they learned to eat what others had cooked. St. Joseph's has one other certain claim to fame among University facilities — It is the only one that serves DePaul students.

ORGANIZATIONS

Accounting Club

The Accounting Club experienced one of its most successful terms during the past year. Founded at Loyola in 1949, it strives to bridge the gap between accounting theory and practice. This aim is accomplished through speakers; representatives of public accounting firms, industry, and banking; field trips; and the distribution of literature, encompassing the many and varied aspects of the accounting field.

As an affiliate of the Illinois Conference of Accountancy Clubs, the organization acquaints the students with the opportunities available for employment, training, and advancement in the business world. Thereby, students vitally interested in accounting may share in the club-sponsored programs. Practice thus complements theory. The members are given an opportunity to discuss the programs and ideas of accountants employed in many of the outstanding Chicago area business firms.

The objective of the American Chemical Society, the largest professional organization in the U.S. devoted to a single science, is " . . . to stimulate the interest of students in chemistry as a profession . . . and to build a professional consciousness that later will guide them into organized activity for the advancement of chemistry as a science and a profession." This chapter's activities have included a series of lectures, tutoring, films, and field trips. The first semester was climaxed with a Christmas party co-sponsored with the Math and Physics clubs. This Spring the annual Student Chemical Symposium of the Chicago Section of the A.C.S. was sponsored by the Loyola Student Affiliate Chapter.

Chardin Anthropological Society

The Chardin Anthropological Society was organized to stimulate interest in anthropology, as Loyola became this year the first Catholic University in the country to offer an undergraduate major in anthropology. A special emphasis is placed on the integration of the "science of man" (embracing woman, too) to associated fields of study. The initial efforts of this neonate activity included social (the SHINDIG), academic (illustrated and illustrious lectures), and utilitarian (Anthropology Interest Day) programs. The Society was named after Pierre Teilhard de Chardin, the internationally famous French Jesuit paleontologist, priest, missionary and author. The co-discoverer of Peking Man of Chou-Kou-Tui, China, Father Teilhard de Chardin died in New York, a research scholar of the Wenner Greun Foundation for Anthropological Research.

Curtain Guild

The Curtain Guild is both an extracurricular activity and an extension of the Department of Speech and Drama.

It is an extracurricular organization providing students, who are interested in various phases of theatrical production, with the opportunity to broaden their experiences in drama appreciation.

It is a departmental organization, which, through its major productions, represents the Department of Speech and Drama and the University. The plays chosen for major production are carefully reviewed to provide a varied and interesting season of plays which represent the best of classic, modern, and contemporary drama. Since Speech and Theatre have always been a part of Jesuit education, the Curtain Guild has a natural place in the University structure.

Chess Club

Founded at the Lake Shore campus, the Chess Club attempts to improve the playing ability of Loyola students in the game of chess. Although it has been only recently established in March, 1964, the club is already deeply involved in many activities, which include minor tournaments, exhibitions, and lectures given by chess masters. Also, in the planning stage is a possible intercollegiate chess league composed of colleges in this area. Directed by Richard Verber, a renowned chess master, this club provides enjoyable practice for the members.

Debating Society

Ninety years old and still kicking — that's Loyola's Debate Society which is now kicking around the idea of a federal program of public work for the unemployed. Although forensic speaking is the oldest extra-curricular activity at the University, its appeal has never waned, and students still enjoy the stimulating challenge to the intellect and the opportunity for free expression which it provides.

Activities include regular speaker meetings, tours of business operations in the Chicago area, including for the first time this year, Illinois Bell's Management Training Seminar, and an Alumni Reception to acquaint members with the employment and advancement opportunities in the areas of finance and economics. ## Equestrian Club

The Equestrian Society, founded in 1953 and reorganized in 1960, provides for those students interested in horsemanship. In addition, the club offers a Physical Education credit to those who comply with the requirements.

There are two differentiated riding groups (advanced and beginners) that meet once each week at the Nu Fashion Club Stables in the vicinity of Lincoln Park. Here the students are given one-hour instructed lessons on the fundamentals of equestrianism by an instructor hired by the University who is himself a Loyola student. Rev. Hugh B. Rodman, S.J., Dean of Arts and Sciences, Lewis Towers, has been the club's moderator ever since its reorganization in 1960.

Club activities include the annual Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter rides, the Christmas dinner, and semester contests where the winning participants are presented with first place trophies and second and third place ribbons.

Fine Arts Club

The Fine Arts Club, organized in 1954, has undergone a major change this year. The club no longer restricts activities to a membership. The activities are open to the entire student body, giving them an opportunity to enjoy some of the many cultural offerings of Chicago.

The activities presented this year offered a wide index of taste-appeals as exemplified by the legitimate theatre productions of After The Fall and Hedda Gabler, a Dave Brubeck Concert, and the Leningrad Kirov Ballet. The Fine Arts Club also sponsored discussions in conjunction with the Curtain Guild after School for Scandal and Evening of Ionesco. An annual trip to New York City was organized this year. The trip is opened to all students. During their stay in New York they are able to take full advantage of the New York stage.

The Gold Torch affords the individual cadet the opportunity to participate in the many and varied activities of campus life. Social functions sponsored by the Gold Torch are a dinner-dance during the semester break, a Spring Dance, and participation in Pow Wow Week and University Weekend. The Military Ball, one of the finest social events of the year, is the Association's major project. As a professional group, the Gold Torch presents guest speakers and films; plans trips; and publishes the Bugler, a cadet newspaper.

Historical Society

The Loyola Historical Society has become one of the largest and most respected student organizations on campus since its inception in 1949. Through the planning of the Society's members, more and better activities, not only necessary for the proper maturation of the historically minded student, but also of equal interest and value to members of every discipline, are being offered each year.

The Society annually sponsors a History Interest Day for Chicago area high-school students. Speakers at this year's program were; Dr. Paul S. Lietz, Mr. Daniel A. DeBarbieri, Miss Barbara Unger, Dr. William R. Trimble, and Dr. Robert W. McCluggage. Faculty Coffee Hours which provide students the chance to speak with members of the History Department in an informal situation, seldom duplicated elsewhere, are also sponsored by the society.

Business Administration Coed Club

Watch out you business tycoons and international financiers! The Loyola women in business have united and are on the way up. Forty-five members strong, the Business Administration Coed Club is a fairly new organization at Lewis Towers. It was established with Miss Virginia Webb as moderator; principally to inform the women of their role in the world of commerce, but this professional aim has not prevented the group from contributing to several of the University's social functions.

Officers: Gail Laughery, President; Karen McGoldrick, Secretary; Louise Wisniewski, Treasurer; Miss Virginia Webb, Moderator.

Knights of Columbus

Although the Knights of Columbus were founded over 82 years ago, the organization did not come to Loyola University until June, 1964. With approximately thirty members, under the guidance of several older and more experienced Knights from other councils, Madonna Della Strada Council of Loyola University was born. As the council approaches its first anniversary, it can look with pride on its accomplishments and honors. It has taken part in many civic and charitable projects. It has attained the two highest honors which can be bestowed on a council: it has joined the Century Club by inducting more than one hundred new members in the past year ;and it has attained the rating of Star Council from the National Board in New Haven, Connecticut. Finally, the council has offered sports participation and entertainment to its members through intramural activities at the school and intercouncil activities in the state.

Gerard Manley Hopkins Society

The Gerard Manley Hopkins Society was founded at Loyola in 1931. Its name honors the outstanding Irish Jesuit poet of the Victorian era.

The Loyola organization is aimed at the fuller development and expression of students in literature as an art. To this end, the Society has sponsored numerous lectures and student discussions on such topics as the role of psychology in literature and on outstanding authors of different periods of literature.

Officers: George Gordon, Vice-President; Jim Fletcher, President; Dick Mocko, Secretary-Treasurer.

Lodorians

After two short years under the direction of Mr. Campbell, the Lodorians have developed quite an extensive repertoire. Unlike traditional choral groups, the young organization chooses musical selections from many sources and of varying styles, and is just as enjoyable at the Hootenanny as at the solemn convocation. The many University functions at which they perform include Founder's Day, the Christmas Crib Blessing, and the Variety Show.

Loyola Men

Joe Locashio, Jim O'Halloran, and Fr. Hayes.

During the past year Loyola Men has sponsored days of recollection, weekly meetings, talks with Fr. Hayes, trips to Xavier, retreats at Techney, crushing the Loyola Gnus at basketball, Christmas party with the faculty. The Men worked on student-faculty relations during the first semester, but concentrated on internal formation more recently. In meetings with the Jesuits from Aurora topics from abolishing Catholic Colleges to the differences between a committed non-believer and a Catholic have been churned over. Fr. Hayes has arranged trips for the Men to conferences on Catholic leadership and study days at other Universities.

From the present discussions, it looks as if non-Catholic speakers will be invited to voice their theological views at Loyola along with challenges from well-versed students. The Men want to be sure that the Christian response is acted out.

Loyola Women

The working role of women in the modern world has been the main topic for consideration by the Loyola Women this year. A religious organization for co-eds, Loyola Women meets once a week and has sponsored such projects as lectures and a poll among Loyola students to determine their attitude toward womanliness and the position of women today in the home, the Church, and the professions. Several members of the group, whose moderator is Fr. Dillon, attended a week-end training school for Catholic leaders and participated in a closed retreat during Holy Week at Gonzaga Hall. By such activities, the members of Loyola Women hope to encourage a spirit of charity through awareness both in the group itself and on campus in general.

Marketing Club

The Marketing Club has approximately 35 members who gain from the activities of the collegiate chapter by becoming better acquainted with careers in marketing through contacts at meetings, conferences, tours, or other programs, by developing contacts of value in locating marketing positions on graduating and by contacting men and companies engaged in marketing work in order to see immediately the application of classroom work.

The Marketing Club aims at encouraging students to choose a career in the field of marketing, at stimulating interest and encouraging scholarship of students presently in the marketing curriculum and at encouraging marketing students to grow professionally by progressing from collegiate chapter membership to full, regular membership in the professional organization of their choice.

Standing: Gary E. Kapke, Treasurer. Seated: Margaret Kretz, Secretary; Frank A. Kurko, President.

Math Club

The Mathematics Club, established in 1951 and currently moderated by Mr. Bernard Petosa, is an organization designed to encourage and develop an interest in mathematics and its many applications. The club offers lectures in IBM computer programming, mathematically oriented topics, and applications of mathematics in business. Membership is open to mathematics majors and anyone else who has successfully completed Calculus II and is currently completing at least one additional course in mathematics.

The Mathematics Club is recognized for its student tutorial service. This service is free and offers the upper division students an opportunity to aid the underclassmen and acquaint themselves with their problems. It helps familiarize the juniors and seniors with student teaching, its rewards and its responsibilities.

Modern Language Club

Emile Zola, "La Suite Belge", "St. Joan of Arc," "Anasco," and Dr. Frederick Ritter reading German poetry — all at L.U. through the efforts of the Modern Language Club. This organization, in close cooperation with the Modern Language Department, is trying to stimulate an interest in foreign countries, peoples, customs, and languages. Many of the students who attended their language movies, lectures, international dinners, interest days, and field trips will attest to the fact that the MLC is attaining its goal.

Monogram Club

The Monogram Club of Loyola University, founded in the 1920's, promotes esprit de corps among the athletes. Proceeds from the Monogram Club's mixer, held near the close of last year's school term, helped pay for the construction of the new trophy case in the second floor lobby of Alumni Gymnasium.

This past year the Monogram Club was not an active organization and no officers were elected. At the annual Communion Breakfast for all members, held on the last Sunday of May, the group elects next year's officers and awards Monogram Club pins to graduating seniors who have won a major letter in any of the major sports.

A word about the Alumni Monogram Club, one of the strongest organizations in the University. A major project is the sponsoring of the annual basketball banquet at the end of the season.

Physics Club

Shades of Fermi and Newton haunt the room as sixty Loyola undergrads concentrate on a lecture about theoretic physics; but, wonder of wonders, this isn't a class. Those intent faces belong mostly to physics majors, but here and there a language scholar or pre-med or poli-sci frowns in an effort to grasp the material. This is Loyola's Physics Club, a group which is trying to offer its members more than they would cover in the normal university course. The Club also attempts to acquaint the members with the opportunities open to them in graduate school and industry.

Political Science Society

The Political Science Society immensely compliments the Political Science Department by moving the students from the abstract realm of the classroom to the concrete realm of action and discussion.

The Society's members actively participate in local community groups and organizations. They work in voter registration and petition drives, in political and non-political campaigns, and in student and Department events. The Society also uses its talents of research and accumulated data to aid not only the individual student but also local groups, organizations, and independent voters.

Young Democrats

The Young Democrats of Loyola spent this hectic election year working towards "the Great Society", and incidentally attempting to get LBJ and other party candidates into office. By October 3 they were able to rack up a 2/1 majority in a mock election at the YD-YR Dance. The next week they were battling for Yates and Perunski on campus, and on October 30 the campaign reached a climax at the Johnson rally in the Chicago Stadium. The members, however, have not forgotten the past in their concern for this year's critical balloting. They held a JFK Memorial Day at which Mr. Strattner of the History Department spoke on President Kennedy's role in history.

United World Federalists

The United World Federalists was founded in 1947. The purposes of the organization, expressed in its motto, "World Peace through World Law," is to create a climate of opinion favorable to the institution of a world federal system. The Loyola chapter, now six years old, is one of four student chapters in the Chicago area and is one of the largest college chapters in the country.

Young Republicans

The strong conservative trend found in some areas of American political thought finds its expression in university life at Loyola through the Young Republicans. The organization was formed in 1959 with the basic objectives of continuing the more conservative American social and legislative traditions and of forming student opinion to take a stand from which they may judge the activities of the present in relation to the lessons of the past.

Psychology Club

The Psychology Club of Loyola has become one of the largest Clubs on campus. This was accomplished by the joint effort of the Undergraduate Psych Clubs of L.T. and L.S.C. The primary aims of the club as proposed by Dr. Walker, the moderator of the Club, are the furthering of interest in Psychology, the introduction of new ideas in the various fields, and familiarization of the many areas in Psychology. In the past year the Undergraduate Club has also combined with Psi-Chi, the Graduate Psych Club.

The Club persists in trying to bring psychology to the interested student, presenting meetings that deal with Experimental, Social, Clinical, and General Psychology. The Psych Undergraduate Club and Psi-Chi also co-sponsored a joint meeting where a well known name in Psychology was invited to speak.

Readers Circle

The Readers Circle is the Oral Interpretation Organization of the Speech and Drama Department of Loyola University. The purpose of the organization is to spread and promote the use of oral interpretation as a legitimate form of speech activity. To achieve the goal reading hours are presented monthly for interested student and faculty members as well as the general public. Two large productions are presented yearly under the direction of the moderator, Miss Catherine M. Geary.

Each year Readers' Circle sponsors the Readers' Rally, an oral interpretation workshop on the high school level open to Chicago area schools. Many tournaments are entered and the members socialize in theatre parties.

Ski Club

The Loyola Ski Club is now completing its third year. Heralded by a swarth of flying bandages and second-hand splints, the Ski Club membership is increasing. With the growth in popularity as a recreational sport, the club is striving to find a more efficient means of bringing the opportunity of skiing to its members. The primary purpose of the Club is to bring together those in the University interested in the sport of skiing, and to provide them with an atmosphere conducive to the proper appreciation of the sport. Among the various activities of the club this year were a ski trip to Aspen, Colorado, a ski raffle, and monthly ski movies.

Society For the Advancement of Management

Specializing in furthering the understanding of management and management personnel among its members, Loyola's branch of the Society for the Advancement of Management has accomplished much as an organization and an activity.

Representing both the day school and the University College, SAM sponsors a variety of speakers, films, bonquets, and field trips. One of the leading chapters in the country, SAM has been most prominent on campus.

Student National Education Association

In October, 1963 the Student National Educational Association founded a chapter at Loyola. Through monthly meetings ranging from guest speakers to field trips, films and panel discussions, it aims at the same goals as the National Educational Association.

The SNEA is an independent, voluntary, non-governmental organization of those who are engaged in educational work. Founded in 1857, it has been the most representative voice of the teaching profession in America and aims "to elevate the character and advance the interests of teaching, and to promote the cause of education in the United States."

The Student National Educational Association seeks constantly to improve the quality of the services of the profession its members are about to enter. Topics such as quality teaching, full-day teaching, adequate facilities, health and safety, wholesome recreation, and systematic guidance are the topics SNEA discusses.

Student A.D.A.

A variety of goals provide the guidelines for the activities of the Student American Dental Association. Future dentists are acquainted with the purposes and ideals of the dental profession and are given opportunities to gain experience in writing, public speaking, and in the preparation of table clinics. Research is promoted through an annual Clinic Day when students display original projects in dentistry. The association also sponsors an honors banquet to conclude the year with the presentation of academic and clinical awards to outstanding students.

The governing body of the association is composed of four representatives from each class. All students in dentistry are eligible for membership in the organization, currently ending its fifteenth year of service to the university.

Student A.M.A.

The Student American Medical Association of Loyola, founded in 1950 and patterned after the American Medical Association, fulfills a four-fold purpose: advancing the medical profession, familiarizing students with the ethics and ideals of medicine, contributing to the education and welfare of medical students, and preparing students to meet the obligations of the medical profession.

The principal means of fulfilling these objectives is through monthly meetings where medical information is dispensed, problems are presented, and general discussions are held concerning various aspects of the practice of medicine. The meetings are generally highlighted by guest speakers and informative motion pictures.

United Independents of Loyola

In October, 1964, after a two-year probationary period the United Independents of Loyola were officially recognized. Numbering about 40 members, the group promotes social and service activities for independents.

In the social area the UIL entered the Ugly Man Contest, won the Pow-Wow Week cheer contest, entered the snow sculptoring, promoted a Miss Loyola contestant, and ran a successful Miss X Mystery Mixer. In service activities the group Christmas caroled and ran a dinner for the old people of St. Carthage Parish along with the Little Brothers of the Poor.

In the Variety Show the UIL group presented "Snow White and the Six Dwarfs". Large benefits have come to the members through sharing in common projects and through exchange of ideas.

Women's Rifle Team

Designed to acquaint women with firearms and their proper use, the Women's Rifle Team strives to improve the shooting skill of its members.

Competition with other coed teams proves the value of their training and dispels the notion of the frailty of women. Success is achieved by combining social activities and shooting matches in an equal proportion.

Wasmann Biological Society

To foster the study of science in general and of the biological sciences in particular is the main objective of the Wasmann Biological Society. The largest active academic organization on campus holds bi-monthly meetings, featuring speakers and films dealing with various aspects of biology. Wasmann also publishes its own newsletter, the Probe, provides tutoring for freshman zoology students, and conducts discussion groups for students interested in more specific phases of biology. Sponsoring a Pre-med and Pre-dent Parents' Day was one of Wasmann's main projects this year. The group's social activities include field trips, a traditional Christmas party, and participation in various University activities.

Cadence in Loyola Thought is the quarterly literary magazine entirely written, staffed, and edited by students of the various colleges and schools of Loyola University. While providing staff members with invaluable journalistic, business, technical, and literary experience, Cadence offers all Loyola students an outlet and stimulus for creative literary expression and appreciation.

The editors and staff of Cadence, with the assistance of Miss Rita C. Clarkson, perform a wide range of activities including collecting, selecting and arranging material, proofreading copy, laying out galleys and handling publicity and distribution within the University and throughout the United States. As the University's only widely circulated student journal, the Loyola NEWS is charged with a two-fold responsibility: it must confront the student body with pertinent events and issues on and off campus, and it must offer the student every opportunity and encouragement to express his own ideas on its pages.

Though the NEWS is subject to prior censorship by the University Administration, it is published entirely at student initiative. The letters columns of the NEWS are open to any student, and the editors try to be receptive to all suggestions.

Throughout the year the NEWS has maintained an editorial voice independent of the student government or of any particular interest group. While it has occasionally clashed with the view of student and administration alike, the NEWS has managed to provide a sounding board for student opinions.

Recent Decisions

"Recent Decisions", the official monthly publication of the Illinois State Bar Association, is published as part of the Illinois Bar Journal. It is written and edited entirely by Law School students. With a circulation in excess of 13,000 composed primarily of practicing attorneys, "R.D." presents commentaries on recent Illinois and Federal cases of unusual significance. The purpose is to acquaint the practitioner with new developments in the Law, as well as to alert him to their particular importance. Since the analysis presented is often employed as a research tool after the date of publication, "R.D." may be properly considered as the barometer by which the legal acumen of Loyola Law students is measured.

Athletic Coaches

Notre Dame's All-American, George Ireland, trained his fourteenth Loyola team this year. Our nationally known basketball coach has also doubled as the University's Athletic Director for the past six years.

Jerry Lyne gives his former coach an assist with the varsity. This year the former Rambler has come up with a freshman team that really looks good.

Jerry Weiland's track squad produced several record breaking performances in '65. Weiland has trained Loyola sprinters for 15 years and was a great runner himself.

Counsel for Loyola's Bowling Team during the last 14 years was attorney Charles Greenstein. Mr. Greenstein also found time to establish the Midwest Intercollegiate Bowling Conference.

As assistant pro at Edgewater Golf Club, John Stevens skillfully coaches Loyola's tiny turf team. Stevens has caddied Loyola through seven successful seasons.

Jerry Hahn made his LU Debut as assistant track coach and cross country coach this year. He is a DePaul graduate and has trained army and high school squads.

Basketball

With the graduation of four of the starting five Ramblers last year, Coach Ireland knew that he would be faced with a rebuilding year. With returning veteran Jim Coleman and Ed Manzke as co-captains, the Ramblers faced a 25 game schedule that would provide worthy competition.

The season opened with the Ramblers defeating the men from Southwest Missouri by a score of 87 to 83. This narrow victory showed that more improvement would be needed if the team expected to turn in a season like the previous year. However, the spirit soon returned to Alumni Gym as Coleman scored 23 points three nights later to defeat Western Ontario 106 to 35. Things began to look bright.

Then the Ramblers took to the road and encountered a big and fast team from Kansas State. Loyola just couldn't get warmed up, and suffered its first loss by a ten point score of 77

Getting a rebound is almost as important as getting a basket, so both Frank and Willie give their best.

Frank Perez gets off another shot to contribute two more points to Loyola's victory over Western Michigan.

to 67. Two days later another powerful Kansas University squad took advantage of the Rambler's lack of height and downed them 80 to 60.

Spirits weren't dampened for long, though, for the Ramblers returned home to drown Middle Tennessee State 117 to 85. Loyola far out-classed its opponents, and reached the high score for the season at the same time. Yet in contrast, the Ramblers were practically upset by North Dakota State, and the game ran right down the wire until we pulled out an 84 to 83 win. Another victory was achieved when North Dakota University couldn't match the speed of the Ramblers, and fell as easy prey 73 to 57.

Highly ranked Minnesota was next on the schedule, and as expected, their power was too much for the young Rambler squad as they compiled a 89 to 73 victory. But the Ramblers again proved that a loss did not break the spirit as they downed their greatest rival, Marquette, by a score of 83 to 71.

Harry Laurie lays the ball up against the Middle Tennessee defender to score a basket.

Another tough annual opponent fell when the Ramblers claimed victory over Western Michigan by an 87 to 79 defeat.

One of the major defeats of the year was suffered at the hands of the highly acclaimed St. Louis team as the final tally on the scoreboard read 90 to 57. And then to add to the gloom, the season's second game with Marquette saw the Ramblers lose this time in overtime by a point margin of 71 to 64.

The next week the Ramblers again split their two games, destroying the team from the University of Windsor by a 109 to 80 defeat, and then losing a couple of days later 98 to 90 to the tough competitors from Marshall. But the high point of the season appeared when Billy Smith played in the Wichita game, and scored 38 points to give Loyola a 93 to 92 overtime victory.

next night, but tumbled to the current NCAA champions, UCLA, by 85 to 72. And as if this were not enough, St. John's came from a seven point deficit to beat Loyola 92 to 87 in the first loss on the home courts in the past several years.

Indiana was the next foe, and again size was the major drawback to the Rambler team as they were overcome 109 to 82.

The squad tried to get back on its feet after this loss, but couldn't seem to catch Miami of Ohio as they lost 79 to 74. And even more frustrating was the two point defeat at the hands of Detroit, with the final score reading 78 to 76.

After this came the second game with the Wheatshockers of Wichita. But the Ramblers were playing on their court, and Wichita avenged the earlier loss by an 80 to 77 defeat. Yet in spite of this, Loyola proved it still knew how to win by downing Western Michigan for the second time by 94 to 81.

However, the bad luck once again rose up as the Ramblers faced the last three opponents of the year. Dayton proved to be more than the Ramblers could handle as Dayton handed them an 83 to 72 loss. Ohio showed it was the master of the courts as the Loyola team was again subdued 84 to 76. The last game of the season was a desperate attempt to end on a happy note, but fatigue was the victor as Bowling Green handed the Ramblers their last defeat of 88 to 82.

But as was known, this was the building year. The Ramblers played hard all year and have learned much. With the majority of the starters returning, and with additions from the powerful freshman squad, the Ramblers are already looking forward to next year's contests.

Freshman Basketball

There is much that can be expected of the freshman Ramblers. The team possessed height and speed this season, and promise to be a valuable addition to the varsity ranks. Losing only one game all season to the A.A.U. Jamaco team, the little Ramblers displayed great power and rebound ability. A great future awaits the men of this squad.

Cross-Country

Loyola's Cross Country team puts in many hours of hard work at Montrose Park. This year under a new coach, the young squad had a successful season. Coach Hahn's hurriers lost their first meet to Northern Illinois University, but this meet took place after Loyola had only practiced for a week. The long distance runners next met Eastern Illinois and Normal Illinois, whom the young squad beat. In both of these meets John Unger lead his six freshmen teammates to the finish line.

Loyola then came against Wayne State University and Wheaton College. The totally freshmen squad lost by a very close score. In this triangular, Bryan Kujawski lead the hurriers to the finish line. The team competed in one other meet, which was the Notre Dame Invitational. Here against some of the best college and university freshmen squads in the midwest Loyola placed second. From this meet alone it looks as if Loyola's Cross Country Team has a bright future.

John Unger and Brian Kujawski await the firing of the gun to start another cross country race.

Golf

Fore - - - - - Look out! A member of Loyola's Golf Team is blasting one straight toward the green and another sizzling victory. Since it won the Chicago Intercollegiate Tournament in '62 this team hasn't cooled down. Bob Kane, Mike McGlynn, Gordon Dammann, Pete Stanfa, and Claude Sasso, under the guidance of Coach John Stevens, have been burning up the fairways at White Pines G. C. and downstate in competition with Western Illinois, Illinois State, U of I (Chicago), U of C, Roosevelt, Bradley, Marquette, and Knox.

Coach Greenstein and Captain Frank Lawler discuss proper bowling ball grips.

Bowling

This year Coach Chuck Greenstein, who has coached the Rambler bowling team to five Midwest Inter-Collegiate Bowling Conference championships since the beginning of his coaching career at Loyola in 1950, has had an able starting squad despite the loss of three of last year's five man team. Playing in conference games which included Notre Dame, De Paul, St. Joseph, and I.I.T., the Ramblers won 26 of their 40 games, and accumulated a total of 57 of a possible 88 points to rank first in the conference.

With only two men graduating this year, Coach Greenstein looks forward to another good campaign next year, and another chance to give the MIBC traveling trophy a resting place for another year at Loyola.

Swimming

Loyola's new swim coach, Mr. Ralph Erickson, matched his team against such mighty opponents as Northwestern and Notre Dame this year. His men trained harder, swam better, and broke more varsity records than any in the University's history. Captain Ron Koehler ably led the Aqua-Ramblers, as he repeatedly smashed pool and varsity records. Freestylers Dave Musich, John Fegan, and Heinz Brauner all performed well. Paul Akers and Al Saalfeld, the butterfly swimmers, swam some fine races. Freshmen Bob Straub and Rich Harper excelled in the breaststroke events while Bill Harrah and John Couper battled for backstroke honors.

Water Polo

Water polo came to Loyola as a full-fledged activity only this year, with the appointment of Mr. Ralph Erickson as swimming coach. Mr. Erickson organized daily polo practices for his swimmers as pre-season and post-season training and to maintain interest in swimming year round. The plan was successful: the team practiced and twice defeated Northwestern before the start of actual competition.

Led by polo captain Paul Akers, the team is probably one of the top ten teams in the nation. Forwards Ron Koehler, Heinz Brauner, and Dave Musich contribute much color to the offense while guards Al Saalfeld and John Fegan assist goalie Bob Straub on defense and initiate Loyola's deliberate, well-organized offense. Next year promises a more complete schedule for the entertainment of Loyola's many new water polo fans.

Track

Even after the graduation of Tom O'Hara, Loyola's track team runs on. Coach Jerry Weiland trained one of his biggest and best squads this year, and only two of the men, Jerry Drozd and Jack O'Neill, are seniors. The team began the season with several very impressive indoor sprints at U. of C. George Bird, Bob O'Connor, Leon Munro, and John Unger revealed some of the talent that made this year's track team a really competitive opponent and will make next year's the team to beat in collegiate events.

Men's Intramurals

The Loyola Intramural Program must be considered one of the most important student activities. The 1964-1965 Program has contributed greatly to this recognition under the direction of Michael Pope. The program has been characterized by increased popularity, competition, and support. This system has really become an integral part of Loyola life.

Besides the three full time major sports of football, basketball, and softball, the Intramural Board has implemented individual contests, such as a free throw contest and a track meet. This is a further indication of the program's avowed purpose to make facilities available for every student who wishes to participate in athletics. This year's activity of the participation of 25 football teams and 34 basketball teams demonstrates the extent to which these aims are being accomplished.

Women's Intramurals

In keeping with the spirit of growth at Loyola University, the women's intramural program has also continued to expand. This year the volleyball tournaments were the largest ever held. Almost every women's organization on campus has in some way contributed to these two tournaments' success. The third year of judo saw the same experienced enthusiasm which it first experienced three years ago.

One of the big events sponsored by women's intramurals is co-ed night. There were several of these each semester and they were, as always, greeted with enthusiasm. The guys and gals competed in basketball and volleyball. They also had a chance to use the pool.

The girls all enjoy the intramural program which allows them the opportunity to steal away from the books for a couple of hours.

With this final page, the production of the 1965 Loyolan is completed. The task of producing a yearbook of this size was an enormous one, requiring the talents and hard work of a great many people. But the work that culminated in a few hectic weeks of long nights and final deadlines is now finished. And so to those people who were willing to spend long hours forming and coordinating the activities that resulted in the 1965 Loyolan, and to those who have helped in other capacities, we sincerely extend our gratitude.

In particular, we wish to express our thanks at the following persons:

To Mr. Bernard Cullen, our moderator, whose spirit of cheer and even-tempered personality saw us through every crises. It must have often seemed to you that you carried the whole weight of this book yourself. Often you did. Many thanks.

To Father Bryant, whose beaming person put forth the kind of diligent effort we needed in obtaining necessary photographs, copy, and identifications. Without you this book would have been impossible.

To Mr. Harry McCloskey and Mr. John Tosto, whose help in many matters proved invaluable in the production of this annual.

To Mr. Brad Petersen, our publisher's representative, whose assistance, suggestions, and work greatly aided our task.

To Richard Barry and Robert Dameron and others in the Public Relations office for their willing assistance and interest.

To Mrs. Namura of the Dental School and Mrs. Conneely of the Medical School for helping us out with identifications and other problems which we brought you.

To Barb, Judy, and the others in the Dean of Students' Office for putting up with countless disturbances.

To Austen Field and Marshall Studios for their excellent work with the senior portraits.

To Jim Kilcoyne for his numerous photographs and friendly smile.

And yet this list would be incomplete without expressing our thanks to our staff:

To Lyle Rausch, for assuming the headache of scheduling the various organizations for their pictures, or would it be more correct to say re-scheduling. Thanks for a task well done.

To Frank Benak, for his excellent photography and limitless determination. Without you we wouldn't have made it.

To Kathy Bowers, for editing and organizing what probably seemed to be thousands of graduate activity sheets. Really, there weren't.

To Pat Nacek, for assembling a mountain of names into the neat and invaluable index. Thanks, Pat.

To Carol Foy, for writing and editing those numerous pages of copy. A most excellent job, Carol.

To Bonnie O'Shea, for identifying the countless pictures that were used. The work must have often seemed impossible at times.

To John Fitzgerald, for giving our layouts original arrangements and more artistic design. Thanks, John.

To Nancy Mullenix, for being our correspondent in Rome. Your pictures were a valuable asset for our Rome Center section.

To Bob Berry, for giving us a good look at the athletic department and its achievements. Fine job, Bob.

Finally, recognition must be given to some of the other members of the staff who generously gave of their time and ability to produce this effort. Special thanks:

To Mary Carroll, for giving us a hand when we most needed it. Your help was greatly appreciated.

To Sharon Pendleton, who saw to it that our typing basket was always empty at the end of the day. Many thanks.

To Frank Joeegen, for his daily campus-hopping to get us the pictures we needed.

To Ed Hunt, for his help in compiling sports statistics and other data necessary for the athletic section.

Thanks also to the countless others who have assisted us during this year. The production of the 1965 Loyolan has not always been an easy task, nor has it always been enjoyable. But with this volume now completed, we can finally relax and remember that "The reward of a thing well done is to have done it."
